CCAP's Learn to Earn Program works with young adults who have dropped out of school and are looking to improve their academic and work skills. The program offers classroom training that will help prepare them to pass the GED examination. Youth also receive job training skills that can lead to good paying employment opportunities.

The Learn to Earn Program is funded by grants from:

- Workforce Solutions of Providence & Cranston - This program works with youth ages 16 to 18 living in Providence and Cranston.
- Workforce Partnership of Greater RI - The GRI program serves youth ages 19 to 21 living in any RI city or town except for Providence and Cranston.
- RI Department of Education - This program serves all youth in RI 18 and over.

CCAP's Learn to Earn program is actively recruiting participants. We provide a comprehensive screening and assessment to determine if youth are eligible for the program.

Each program has income and residency requirements and youth must have good reading skills. If you have any questions you can call the Learn to Earn Program at 467-9610, extension 164.
